

The circuit diagram shows a battery on the left. A single wire goes from the positive terminal to a resistor. After the resistor, the circuit splits into two parallel branches. The top branch contains a resistor, and the bottom branch contains a lamp. The two branches rejoin, and the wire returns to the negative terminal of the battery.

ZF = 128 kHz